The University of North Carolina: A Mission Rich in Tradition

Chartered by the North Carolina General Assembly in 1789, the University of North Carolina (UNC) was the first public university in the United States to open its doors, and the only one to graduate students in the 18th century — the first class was admitted in Chapel Hill in 1795. For the next 136 years, the only institution of UNC was at Chapel Hill. Over the next two centuries, all the public educational institutions that grant baccalaureate degrees in North Carolina became part of the UNC System, including 16 multi-campus state university institutions, as well as the NC School of Science and Mathematics, the nation’s first public residential high school for gifted students.

As an educational system, the UNC System mission is to discover, create, transmit, and apply knowledge to address the needs of individuals and society. This mission is accomplished through instruction, which communicates the knowledge and values and imparts the skills necessary for individuals to lead responsible, productive and personally satisfying lives; through research, scholarship and creative activities, which advance knowledge and enhance the educational process; and through public service, which contributes to the solution of societal problems and enriches the quality of life in the state.

The UNC System offers a flexible and comprehensive package of benefits, along with valuable work and family programs. These programs can help employees attain their retirement savings and career goals, as well as help to meet their everyday needs. Our programs are designed to allow you to tailor a benefits package that best meets the unique needs of you and your family.

EHRA positions are exempt from the provisions of the State Human Resources Act of North Carolina<sup>1</sup> and are governed by the UNC Board of Governors. This includes all faculty positions and most research, instructional and senior administrative positions.
